

Sponsorship Information

The 25th annual International Multisensory Research Forum is a research community that aims to advance our understanding of how the nervous system processes information from multiple senses to shape both perception and action. This multidisciplinary conference features neuroscientists, psychologists, engineers, biologists, cognitive scientists and others coming together to present and discuss the most recent and impactful work in the field. Active topics of research include human and animal behavior, sensory anatomy and physiology, neural correlates of multisensory processes, computational modeling, perception, attention, development, adaptation, decision making, as well as clinical and technological applications.

With an anticipated attendance of over 250 scientists, sponsorship supports:

- Student advancement and networking with international researchers
- Dissemination of the latest multisensory findings
- Emergence of cutting-edge multisensory research methodologies and approaches

Experience the beauty and vibrancy of the Reno/Tahoe area! In addition to the scientific symposia, talks, and poster sessions, this conference's events will spotlight the uniqueness of the Reno/Tahoe area. The Welcome Reception will be held in the Keck Museum and the historic Quad of the University of Nevada, Reno. Enjoy at "Day at the Lake" on Wednesday with programming and the Gala Dinner hosted on the shores of breathtaking Lake Tahoe. These events are included in the complimentary registration offered with a selection of our sponsorship opportunities.
